

What are the key takeaways from last night's election?

Charles Cooper, Managing Partner & Co-Founder

“ Democrats clearly outperformed Republicans, and while the 2026 election is a year away, this will give Democrats some momentum. ”

Madeline Wade, Partner & Co-Founder

“ Moderate and progressive Democrats had a good night. It's a clear sign that both parties should not try to mold one kind of politician to win in 2026. Local issues matter and Democrats did well because they spoke to their state or city's needs. ”

Brett Fulcer, Vice President

“ The results indicate a momentum swing for Democrats, but it's still too early to say whether that trend will hold through next year's midterms. ”

Marc Berejka, Senior Advisor

“ The swing vote still swings. ”

Jessica Black, Marketing and Business Dev. Manager

“ Many counties saw strong voter turnout for yesterday's elections, some with record numbers. This shows us that voters are fired up and eager to exercise their voice. ”
